Moscow

Tonight Hope and DeQueen Leopards renew old rivalries on the local football field.

There are other "Leopards" besides De Queen's, of course. Malvern has 'em too — but De Queen's are cats of a special color and class. Twenty years ago I saw a beautiful riot at a Hope-DeQueen football game played in Fair park here. The players got along all right, but the open fair grounds and unfenced playing field were an invitation for interference by spectators.

Today we are playing football for the community's sake and statewide good will — and the way the games are staged bears this out. Modern stadiums which fence off the players from the spectators, more officials on the field, and larger police protection in the stadium, have given high school football today the prestige which is demanded by a game that draws crowds of 4,000 and more.

So tonight Hope welcomes back an old antagonist from the football years which we grew up through together — De Queen.

May the best team win — but win or lose, keep it peaceful.

Yesterday's federal cotton production estimate puts the 1949 crop 138,000 bales ahead of the estimate a month ago, slightly ahead of last year's actual production, and 3 and one-half million bales above the average for the last 10 years.

Machines have stepped up production, even as the postwar demand is dropping — and is strict acreage controls are inescapable for next year to avert a price collapse.

Maybe, as John Gunther hints in his book, "Behind the Curtain," the Russians do have a will to peace. This morning's overnight news makes it look like this is true.

Despite Russia's irritation over the independent attitude of Yugoslavia — which is the equivalent of U. S. irritation over one of the Central American republics suddenly taking an unfriendly course of action — despite this, Moscow says now she may lay the quarrel with Tito squarely in the lap of the United Nations.

Knowing what a slight chance there is of getting the United Nations to take any positive action, Russia in taking this passive step must be credited with feeling more peace-intentioned than war-minded.

City Building Permits Now Necessary

According to permits issued by the City of Hope construction within city limits since January 1, 1949 total only $293,100.

The largest portion of this is attributed to the Baptist church auditorium which will cost approximately $175,000. The next largest single item is the N. E. O'Neal building, East second, which is way out of line. A converted place building construction in Hope at over a half million dollars since January 1.

All construction work in Hope requires a permit as provided in an ordinance. But very few people observe it, although to do so they leave themselves open to court action.

The irony of it all is that a permit is absolutely nothing. So in recent action the council notified the water and light plant to make electric and water connections unless a permit has been issued.

All of which indicates that estimated cost of construction in the city of Hope will be available in the future.

To Announce Results of Music Tests

The results of the music aptitude test given Thursday morning to Hope students in the fifth, sixth, and seventh and eighth grades will be ready for announcement on Monday night, Sept. 12, at Oglesby Junior High School.

By that time the test results will have been tabulated and incorporated in the permanent school board of each child. Parents of those children taking the test are invited to meet at the junior high school Monday night from 7:30 to 9:00 p. m. to discuss with school authorities and Mr. Cannon, band director, the inference to be drawn from the test.

The test should establish whether or not a child is adapted to the study of music and especially hand music. Mr. Cannon is very interested in continuing the high level of instrumental instruction begun in the grade schools last year. Therefore he has called this meeting to have an opportunity to talk to parents and advise them about purchase of an instrument.

Nelson Headley, representative of Phillips Vela Ltd. Shreveport, La., will be on hand with a full display of hand instruments, in various price ranges. He will be prepared to discuss purchase terms as well as a trial rental plan. This meeting is made possible through the cooperation of school authorities and all interested parents are urged to attend.

MP Railway Virtually at Standstill

St. Louis, Sept. 9 — (AP)—Service on the Missouri Pacific railroad's vast 10-state system came to a virtual halt today, hours ahead of the threatened strike that will idle some 30,000 workers.

Only a few trains were still running — making for their terminals and a final stop.

Fires in most of the big freight locomotives already were out.

Both sides in the dispute were standing by, anxious for some word from Washington. What action, if any, they expect President Truman to take they wouldn't say.

The strike is scheduled for 2 p. m. (CST) today. But the tracks were being cleared earlier on order of the railroad.

Mrs. Harry S. Truman, the president's wife, was to be a passenger on one of the last inbound Mod-Pac trains today. She was to travel on the Colorado Eagle at Independence and arrive here at noon.

Last Missouri Pacific passenger train to leave St. Louis was No. 3, bound for Little Rock. It departed at 7:22 a. m. Last train due in St. Louis was No. 4 from Texarkana, Ark., scheduled to arrive at 5:30 p. m.

No unusual occurrences were reported today at Union station, but police were instructed to pay particular attention to Missouri Pacific property. Officials at the bus terminal here said at 10 a. m. that they had not yet noticed any increase in passengers.

Railroad officials said they doubted that any perishables were caught in the delay. A flight embargo was imposed last Tuesday to allow time for rolling freight to reach its destination.

A strike will cripple hundreds of towns and thousands of industries. Last minute efforts to stop the strike were made in Washington, but there was no indication it could be averted.

President Truman said yesterday he was doing everything he could, but added that the government had exhausted nearly all its authority in such cases.

An embargo on passenger, mail and baggage service became effective early today. Some long-distance trains, however, were expected to complete their runs until after the strike deadline.

In addition to the 5000 operating employees, a spokesman for the road estimated that 80 or 90 per cent of the Missouri Pacific's non-operating personnel have received layoff notices.

The dispute behind the strike is not over wages and hours. At issue is the manner in which various operating rules should be interpreted.

The brotherhoods which represent the 5000 employees—engineers, firemen, conductors and other trainmen—see the rules one way; the railroad sees them another. There are 282 individual claims by the employees, involving $3,000,000.

President Truman appointed an emergency fact-finding board in the dispute last July, acting under the national railway labor act. The railroad charged the brotherhoods nullified "the letter and spirit of the emergency board's findings."

R. E. Davidson, spokesman for the brotherhoods, said a recommendation for arbitration of the issues was rejected "because some issues are just not arbitrable."

The board's report, which was issued last July, called for subsidizing the Gulf Coast lines, the International-Great Northern and the Texas and Pacific—have separate contracts with the unions and will not be affected by the strike. The three operate in Texas and Louisiana.

Station KXAR to Carry Football Games

KXAR will carry a full weekend football program this fall in an announcement from the station.

All of the Hope High school games will be broadcast both home and out of town. John McLeod will again head the play by play staff.

Each Saturday afternoon a featured game will be presented through the facilities of the Mutual Broadcasting system followed by the Arkansas Razorback game.

Tentative plans are being made to broadcast Ouachita college's outstanding games this season. If this plan is completed, these games will be broadcast on Saturday night.

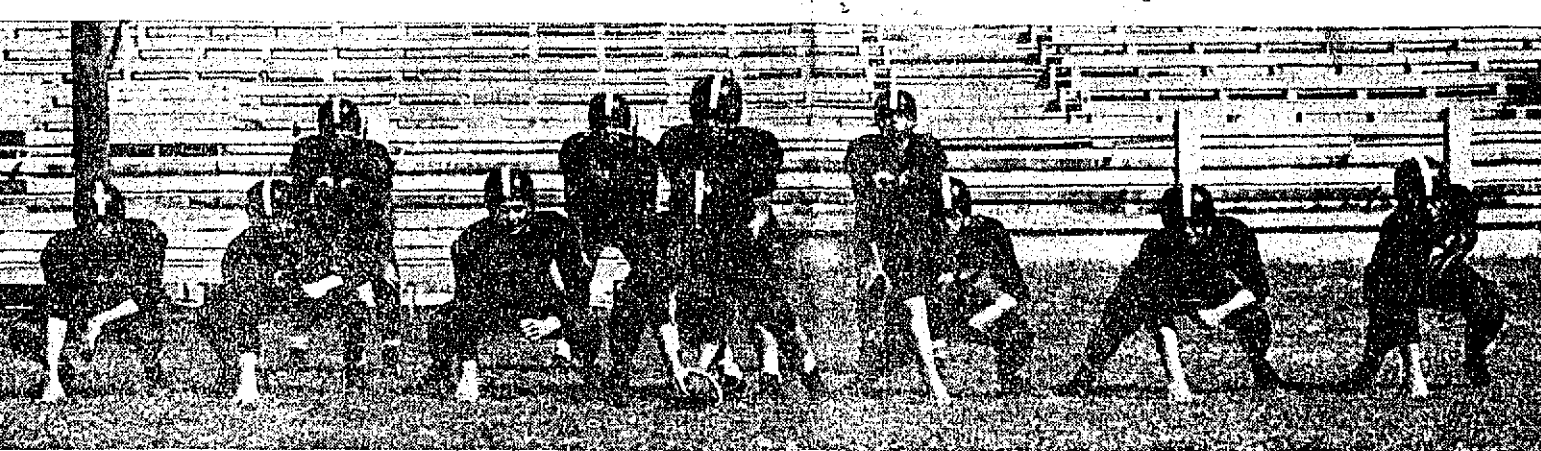

To Charge Admission for Autos

Foy Hammons, Third District Livestock Show manager, said today that automobiles will be admitted to the show grounds next year but the fee will be 25 cents per vehicle.

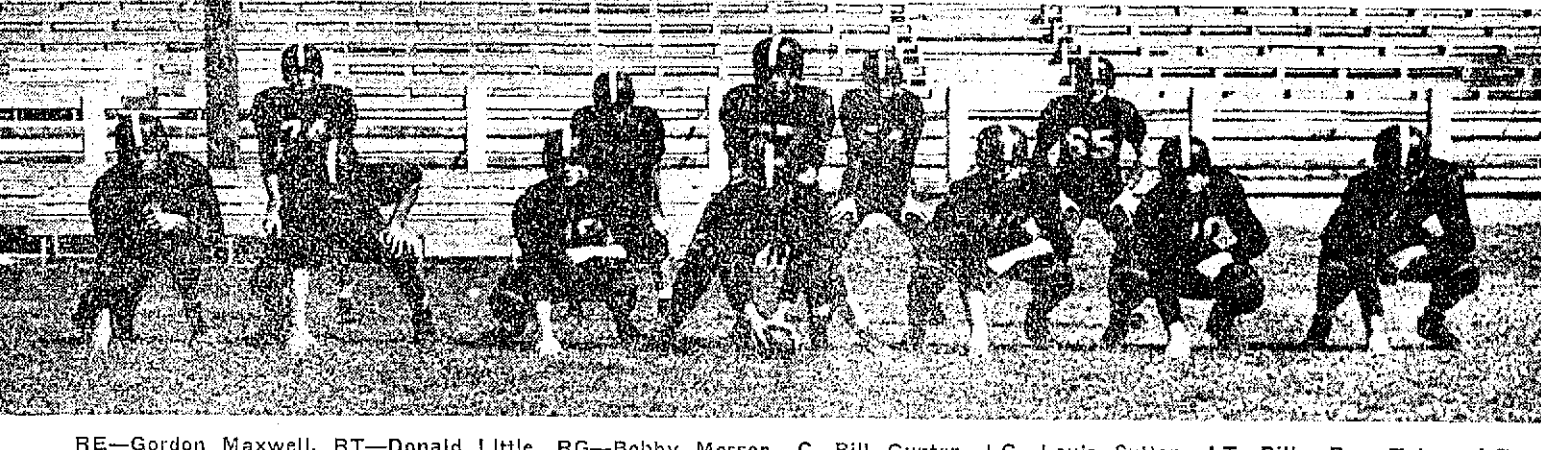

This is necessary because of premium money we have to raise, Mr. Hammons said. Cars will be admitted to the show grounds and can leave only through the rear gate.

It was also announced that admission will be no passes, but 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. A season ticket will sell for $1, and mission prices will be 25 cents for full and 10 cents for children.

Loan Said to Be Shot in Arm for Tito

By EDWARD M. KORRY

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Sept. 9 — (UP)—Western diplomatic observers said today the $20,000,000 American loan to Yugoslavia would be a big morale booster for the Tito government in its battle against the Kremlin.

These sources interpreted announcement of the loan as an American declaration of aid to Marshal Tito in his fight to avoid being overthrown by Premier Josip Stalin of Russia.

The news reached here from Washington last night that the U. S. export-import bank had granted the $20,000,000 credit to Yugoslavia to purchase American mining equipment.

The funds will be used to rebuild the rich Yugoslav bauxite, mercury, copper, lead and zinc mines. In return, the United States will receive shipments of these strategic metals in increase its stockpiles.

Part of Tito's quarrel with Stalin was Russia's refusal to supply Yugoslavia with heavy industrial equipment to modernize her mines and factories.

Announcement of the loan coincided with another bitter attack on Russia in the Yugoslav Communist party newspaper Borba. The article written by Milovan Djilas, Communist party propaganda chief, charged Russia was using imperialist tactics in an attempt to bring Yugoslavia to heel.

As a result of Russia's thirst for profits from the Balkans, Djilas said, "vassals and obedient governments have been created instead of free and independent socialist states."

Djilas said that Russia had "introduced the principles of capitalist trade in socialist countries" and that the Soviet thirst for profits had led to "political imperialism."

"Soviet leaders in their own country under the mask of Soviet patriotism indulge in the most vulgar nationalism," he said.

Houchins to Trial Oct. 7 for First Degree Murder

Little Rock, Sept. 9 — (AP)—Trial of Harold Ray Houchins, charged with first degree murder in the death of Seth L. Reed, Clarksville, Ark., has been set for Oct. 7.

Houchins, 23-year-old University of Arkansas student, is charged with fatally beating Reed, prominent masonic leader and insurance man, in his hotel room here last Nov. 23.

Arkansas Post-Opinion Editor Duran announced last May that Houchins admitted striking Reed after they had engaged in abnormal sexual relations.

East Germany to Get Rule of Communism

Berlin, Sept. 9 — (AP)—Russia plans to give eastern Germany a communist government and lead it into her Cominform of Soviet bloc.

Non-communist political leaders in eastern Berlin report the "German people's democracy" will be built around the Socialist Unity (communist) party in the five east German lands (provinces) with Berlin as the capital.

Informants disagreed as to the exact timing of the step. Some said it would be sprung during the New York meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers this month.

Others believed it would be held off until Soviet zone elections tentatively set for October or November.

A high American source said "something is afoot just about on these lines. So far the Russians have absolutely failed to sell their brand of communism to the majority of Germans in their zone."

Government Will Run Mail Truck

Final mail trains through Hope today will be Nos. 17 and 7, southbound from Little Rock, and No. 6, northbound from Texarkana, after which the Missouri Pacific strike will force the mails to other routes.

Postmaster Robert M. Wilson, of Hope Post Office, said today that a government mail truck will make a daily roundtrip between Little Rock and Texarkana, southbound through Hope in the morning, and northbound in the afternoon.

As yet no embargo against parcelpost has been declared by the government. But of course a soldier new to battle.

"That's as far as they can get," said the ship captain.

We camped behind a British battery. That night German counter-battery fire landed in our position and killed some men. The next night we were in an apple orchard. A German plane found us with flares and put a bomb in the middle of our orchard.

But by the next day the airstrip was hot.

Then the long march up the mountainside peninsula began. It was like a war between quarreling units on the backside of a diamond.

Italy Had Visitors 6 Years Ago Today—The 'Forgotten' Armies That Paid in Blood

By HAL BOYLE

New York — (AP)—Six years ago today Italy was surprised by the greatest tourist influx in its history.

A number of German visitors were already there. And they weren't surprised. They were on the beachhead—battling.

The reaction that followed is known as the battle of Salerno. It is one of the real milestones of the second world war, marking the first joint British-American landing on the continent of Europe.

It opened a disheartening campaign that became a long bleeding wound for the troops who fought in this "forgotten war."

And the keynote was set at the moment of landing. American navy vessels had withheld their softening fire against land targets, leaving thereby the assault troops would catch the Germans unaware.

But an enemy reconnaissance plane had sighted allied convoys the day before. When the infantry waded ashore through mine belts the Nazi 16th Panzer division was in position, all guns firing.

The Germans quickly massed four other divisions around the beachhead. And for five stubborn days of around-the-clock fighting the Allies fought to keep from being thrown back into the sea.

And there were many — high officers among them — who thought that would happen. Wise men slept with their clothes on.

I landed with a group of airborne engineers whose job was to follow quickly after the first infantry groups and build an airstrip for American fighter bombers. We came from Sicily aboard a British tank landing ship.

As we approached the shore I could see bright orange flashes on the sands.

"Why have they not the artillery still on the beaches?" asked a soldier new to battle.

"That's as far as they can get," said the ship captain.

We camped behind a British battery. That night German counter-battery fire landed in our position and killed some men. The next night we were in an apple orchard. A German plane found us with flares and put a bomb in the middle of our orchard.

Chinese Aid Plan Flatly Rejected

Washington, Sept. 9 — (UP)—Senate Republicans turned thumbs down today on an administration offer to compromise on their demands for military aid for China.

They termed the offer a "phony." But Sen. Tom Connally, (D-Tex.), snapped that "they'd better be satisfied with what we offer if they want to get anything at all."

Connally heads a special committee considering President Truman's arms aid program. Mr. Truman asked nothing for China.

The proposed compromise, drafted yesterday by Connally and the state department, would provide up to $75,000,000 for aid in the Far East, but would give the President a free hand in deciding whether any arms went specifically to non-communist China.

Sen. William F. Knowland, (R-Cal.), leader of a GOP faction seeking arms for China, flatly rejected the proposal.

"A compromise not including the words 'military aid' or 'China' is no compromise at all," he said. "We're not going to be satisfied with any phony settlement."

Connally's committee was appointed a subcommittee on the China issue. Knowland virtually conceded defeat within the committee, but promised a last ditch battle later when the bill to reform the Atlantic pact powers and other free nations comes to the senate floor.

Will Try Again to Settle Reynolds Stroke

Little Rock, Sept. 9 — (AP)—Union and company representatives will meet Tuesday in an attempt to settle the Reynolds Metals company strike.

Charles E. Smith, district sub-director for the CIO United Steelworkers of America, said last night the session to be held here Tuesday afternoon was called by the federal mediation and conciliation services at the union's request.

The strike of 1,800 employees at Reynolds two Arkansas aluminum plants and bauxite mines has been under way since Aug. 1.

Europe Council Ends Historic Session

By FRANK O'BRIEN

Strasbourg, France, Sept. 9 — (AP)—The Council of Europe's consultative assembly wound up its historic first session today shortly after okaying a bill of human rights.

During its one-month sitting the 12-nation body approved a number of recommendations which may help ward off the political and economic unity of Europe.

The entire session was dominated by off repeated assertions that Europe — despite Marshall plan aid — stands on the brink of economic and political disaster from which it only can be rescued by unity.

Since the assembly only has advisory powers, the human rights measure must be approved by the 12-nation first session of the European council to become effective.

The resolution guaranteeing 10 specific fundamental human freedoms passed 65 to one with 17 abstentions. Most of the British Labor group, which opposed the measure, abstained from voting.

British Laborite opposition to the to enforce observance of the proposal for an international court to enforce observance of human rights was based on fears that such a body might become a sounding board for communist propaganda.

Under its present set-up the 101-member assembly has no real authority. It can debate and pass resolutions which in turn must be approved or rejected by the Council of Europe's guiding body, the 12-member committee of ministers representing the various governments.

It is up to each member government as to whether the Council of Europe recommendations will be observed.

The human rights resolution calls upon the member governments to sign a convention agreeing to observe the bill of 10 human rights endorsed by the assembly and to set up a European court of human rights.

The 10 rights and freedoms were listed as:

1. Security of the person.
2. Exemption from all slavery and servitude.
3. Freedom from all arbitrary arrest, detention and exile.
4. Freedom from all arbitrary interference in private and family life, home and correspondence.
5. Freedom of thought, conscience and religion.
6. Freedom of opinion and expression.
7. Freedom of assembly.
8. Freedom of association.
9. Freedom to be united in trade unions.
10. The right to marry and found a family.

The board, adopted a resolution by the member governments to copy of which will be sent to the Highway Commission and Governor McMath. The resolution called for the following projects:

1. State Highway 29 from Hope to Delight by way of Blevins. The road from Hope to Blevins should be paved and from Blevins to Delight should be an all-weather road. The stretch from Hope to Blevins is used by both Blevins school children and serves as an access to both cities by residents of the Delight community. Petitions have been signed by residents of Blevins, Delight, Hope requesting opening of No. 29 to Delight.

2. State Highway No. 4 from Hope to Rosston. No. 4 from Hope should be blacktopped from a point east of Hope for a distance of at least 14 miles with the remaining portion a good all weather road. The road becomes almost impassable during the wet season.

3. State Highway 73 from its intersection with Highway No. 4 north of Hope to Columbus and Saratoga. This highway from the point of its intersection with No. 4 should be blacktopped at least a distance of 5 miles toward Columbus and Saratoga and the balance of the road toward Saratoga should be made an all-weather level from Columbus are being transported to Hope schools and buses should be able to operate on regular schedule.

Jack Cromer, who brought in the first bale of cotton, was unable to attend the meeting and arrangements have been made to send him his premium money.

Two letters were read commending the city and the Chamber of Commerce for 3000 pounds of Hope melons which were sent to the Arkansas Society in Washington for an annual dinner. The letters were from Edwin P. Williams, Washington director of the Arkansas Resources and Development Commission and a friend of John H. Steedman, assistant to President Truman and president of the society.

Following acceptance of Mr. Forsythe's resignation last night, a special committee was named with authority to interview and hire a successor. The committee included Lyle Brown, Herbert Burns, Frank McLary, and Warren Gunters.

To Close Offices

Atlanta, Sept. 9 — (AP)—Thirty nine local rent offices in housing region four, which includes Arkansas, will be closed Sept. 15. Region Housing Expediter Kenneth A. Campbell has announced.

His announcement said that in Arkansas, the Jonesboro office will be closed and controls there handled by the Blytheville office; the El Dorado office closed and controls handled by the Hope office; and the Fayetteville office closed.

Forsythe Resigns as Manager of Local C of C

B. D. (Cy) Forsythe, manager of the Hope Chamber of Commerce since December 1, 1948, submitted his resignation to the Board of Directors last night and it was accepted.

Mr. Forsythe resigned to accept a position with Virtue Bros. Manufacturing Co. of Dallas, a furniture plant. He came to Hope after 2 and half years as head of the Scarcey Arkansas Chamber of Commerce.

Local sources indicated today that C. A. (Chuck) Armistead might take over the post which he formerly held, at least temporarily.

In other action the board discussed at length a plan to enlarge the proposed national guard armory to be used as a field house but decided to drop the issue as the cost would be prohibitive.

To enlarge the armory would have cost about some $100,000 and the group could think of no way to raise that sum at this time. They asked Capt. J. D. Fuller to thank the Arkansas Military Department for its consideration and urged that a new location be built between the motor garage and the courthouse at a cost of $80,000, be started as soon as possible.

Capt. Fuller told the group that a full guard complement here furnishes pay of $40,000 annually and will probably be enlarged to $60,000. The local guard has opening for at least three of officers and many enlisted. He asked aid in a campaign to fill the Company A quota.

The board, adopted a resolution by the member governments to copy of which will be sent to the Highway Commission and Governor McMath. The resolution called for the following projects:

Western Belles Taking Beauty Contest

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 9 — (P) — A group of western belles from the Mississippi, prettier than eastern or southern belles.

Preliminary results in the 1949 Miss America pageant seem to point that way. All of the preliminary winners announced in the talent and bathing suit divisions are from the wide open spaces with one exception — Miss Canada.

Tonight's third and final preliminary contest may give the westerners the upper hand in the finals tomorrow night, but no one will know until the 15 finalists are announced then.

Sylvia Canaday, an 18-year-old eyed from Denver, "Miss Colorado," took first honors in the bathing suit preliminary last night. The night before "Miss Arizona," Jacqueline Mercer of Litchfield, and Jane Ann Pederson of Santa Rosa, "Miss California," tied for the classy chassis award.

A demure Canadian miss, Margaret, Lyane Munn of Toronto, pulled down the top spot in the talent division last night with a rendition of "Sempere Libera" from the opera "La Traviata," and another westerner, "Miss Minnesota," Yvonne Burkhardt of Minneapolis.

But eastern and southern girls may make up for their losses in the preliminary and evening gown divisions, in which nightly preliminary winners are not announced. Presently, some of the girls selected among the 15 finalists come as a complete surprise to the audience. There have even been instances where an announced preliminary winner failed to make the grade to the finals.

But generally a preliminary winner is a cinch for a crack at the finals for the $25,000 Miss America scholarship jackpot.

One of the three-minute talent acts in last night's show may well be the first time (and the last time) in 29 years that an animal has appeared on the huge Convention hall stage in the Miss America contest.

"Miss Montana" in her bid for a talent trophy, appeared aboard her nine-year-old mare to display

Romantic Farmer Admits Swindling 18 Women

Chicago, Sept. 9 — (P) — A North Carolina farmer with a way with the ladies was held without charge today after police said he told of swindling 18 women through marriage proposals.

Handsome Jesse Thornton Vaughan, 30, who gave his address as Roxboro, N. C., was arrested in her horse-manship. The contestant — Carol Rosebel Fraser of Billings — walked, trotted and cantered the horse. Then she showed the audience of 7,000 a short color film of herself riding, and paraded her numerous trophy and ribbons. She did not place in the talent contest.

Cottonseed Loan Program Is Discussed

Memphis, Sept. 9 — (P) — Agricultural officials from 20 states today closed two-day discussions of the new cottonseed loan program. The talks were conducted by Dr. C. D. Walker, conductor of the cotton branch, production and marketing administration, and Assistant Director John H. Dean.

The loan, designed to provide a $40.50 support price for cottonseed, is the first such support for the product. W. B. Crawley, of Washington, D. C., assistant administrator for production of the PMA, addressed the group on the problems in cotton seed.

Goodman and L. E. Davison. One, Tucker said, occurred only this week when Vaughan met a young woman in a loop bar and invited her to his hotel room. He admired her ring, which she told him was worth $450, and asked to borrow it so he could have a duplicate made for his mother. He told Tucker the woman gave him the ring plus $123 in cash when he proposed to her. The ring brought $65 at a pawn shop, Vaughan said. Tucker said Vaughan was trapped through a woman who told police he pawned items under the names of J. T. Vaughan, R. A.

Its Tough to Become a State Trooper

By C. B. SWARTZ

Little Rock, Sept. 9 — (UP) — It's tough to become a state trooper in Arkansas.

And it's still tougher after you attain the name "state trooper." This fact was brought out by a visit to the state police school in Little Rock, where more than a score of hopeful candidates are working out part of their program to become one of the "state's finest."

Out at state police headquarters, 28 men are going through a period of training that would discourage an army sergeant with everything from class work to calisthenics.

At 5:45 a. m. the boys roll out of bed to get ready for a 15-minute exercise period. Then at 6 a. m. comes breakfast and the boys are ready for it after their workout.

Meals are served in a mess hall imported from Camp Robinson and are prepared in a kitchen which would put the average home kitchen to shame in the matter of cleanliness.

After inspection the boys go to classes which include everything from law to how to handle a prisoner who thinks he's tough. (In the latter class, state cops are taught the art of self-defense, including judo and jujitsu.)

The school lasts for 30 days starting Sept. 1 and winds up with a graduation with the governor handing out certificates to those who have passed the tests.

But the hopeful few who are attending the school represent only about 20 per cent of those who have tried to become state patrolmen and were stopped before they got to school.

First, said Capt. Frank McGiboney, public relations officer of the state force, a man must submit his application, giving his education, qualifications, and a hundred-dollar fee.

A high school education is the minimum for the application. The application is screened by a board — and by the time it has finished, everything is known about the applicant from the cradle to the present. After passing through a few more hands the application lands with the state police commission. Doyle Hunicutt, chairman, and his field commissioners look it over and decide if the applicant should be given a chance.

If approved, he attends the 30-day school which is now in progress.

After finishing classes the hopeful policeman goes on duty, but he is still not a full-fledged patrolman. He has a year of probation before he carries the proud title of "Arkansas state policeman."

If, during the year, he performs his duties in a satisfactory manner, he is fully qualified as a member of the state police. From there on, he is on his own — a representative of the best the state can choose.

In the present school seven men are taking the course without previous experience. The school has been on temporary appointments.

On Sept. 25 students at the school will join other state police in dedicating a new building at the headquarters. It will be named the A. S. Pavatti building in honor of the only state patrolman ever slain in line of duty. He was killed Sept. 25, 1948 while attempting an arrest in Marion county.

England's Experiment With Socialist Government Heads for a Stormy Showdown

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

England's experiment with socialist government is headed for a stormy showdown in the next general election, which will determine whether the country wishes to continue the regime or return to the old system of free enterprise, which the greatness of the empire was built.

The labor (socialist) government which came to power in July of '45 would have a normal life of five years that is, until next summer. However, England's economic crisis has reached such a grave pass that it's anybody's guess whether it will get better or worse.

This confronts the socialist leadership with the problem of whether to hang on until the end of their term — in hope of improvement — or to force an early election on the chance that things are better now than they will be later.

As things stand, that decision must hinge largely on crystal gazing. Much will depend on the outcome of the British-Canadian-American conference opening in Washington today to seek a solution of John Bull's predicament. If relief can be devised, the socialist political chances might be improved.

England's socialist leaders are under no delusions about the political dangers ahead. Both Sir William Lawther, president of the Great British trades union congress, and James Griffiths, chairman of the Labor party, warned the annual conference of the T. U. C. Monday that socialism is facing a tough fight.

This blunt warning was aimed at wildcat strikes which have been complicating the economic crisis. Both leaders declared labor might lose the next general election if it didn't stay on the job. Sir William asserted that some work stoppages have been instigated by communists.

So Britain's socialist leaders are worried — and for good reason. Things haven't worked out as they anticipated when they took office. Economic difficulties, which they inherited as the result of the war, have gone from bad to worse.

Inevitably there has arisen the searching question of whether the situation has worsened because of socialist policies or whether the same misfortune would have dogged the conservatives if they had been continued in power.

That's a question which the voters must certainly want answered before they go to the polls.

The burden of proof will rest with the socialists, and it won't be easy to produce the evidence. They can claim with perfect right that they inherited serious economic difficulties. Few will dispute that. But the next question is tough:

"Have the socialist policies, during more than four years of government, improved the economic situation any?"

The answer obviously is in the negative. This puts it up to the party to prove to the public that conservative policies would have met a similar fate. And here again we enter the realm of speculation. The cold fact is that the labor government departed radically from the system of free enterprise (damned by socialism as "capitalistic") and instituted a very considerable program of nationalization of industries and even of medical services. But still the economic crisis grew.

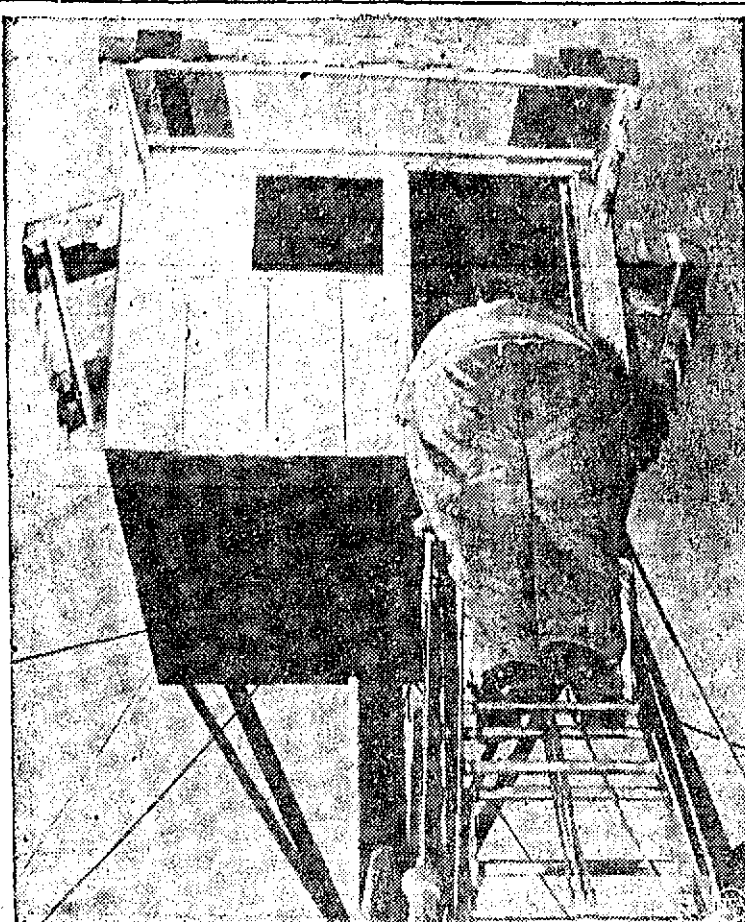

What the long-range effect of such a policy might have on British economy is a matter of speculation. The question already arises, however, as to how much distrust has been created by nationalization. Is private capital being deterred from investing in non-nationalized industry? Has production slumped in non-nationalized industries because of lack of public for renovations and equipment?

We shall have to await the election for light on those questions. That is, unless meantime Prime Minister Attlee's government can pull a rabbit out of the hat and start England on the road to quick recovery.

Anti-McMath Group Gets Organized

Conway, Sept. 9 — (P) — Anti-administration forces launched their hunt for a candidate to oppose Governor McMath in 1950 at a barbecue in a cedar grove near here yesterday.

(The Arkansas Gazette said Dave Ward, Conway bus body manufacturer, emerged as the probable candidate of the anti-administration group.)

The paper said Ward's name was not mentioned, but that it was "evident" that many of those attending the meeting had settled on Ward as their candidate. It added that Ward paid the bill for the barbecue, but would be reimbursed.

The meeting was organized by Harry Lee Williams, Little Rock, veteran Arkansas political figure and state official in former Gov. Ben Lancy's administration.

Williams said committees will be named in 50 Arkansas counties to choose a candidate to oppose McMath.

The governor was blistered by every speaker at the affair. Williams, who assisted in management of Jack Holt's unsuccessful campaign against McMath last year, said "the people are disgusted with this boy McMath. He has broken every promise he made. x x x"

Charles Parish, Morrilton attorney, also charged the governor with breaking promises.

Other speakers at the affair, attended by approximately 175, included two unsuccessful candidates for governor last year, James (Uncle Mac) McKrell, Little Rock, and Charles Fleming, Forrest City.

Dr. Chenault Resigns From Medical School

Little Rock, Sept. 9 — (P) — The resignation of Dr. H. Clay Chenault of Hot Springs, as University of Arkansas vice-president in charge of medical education, has been announced by University President Lewis W. Jones.

He said Dr. Chenault, giving up his post because of ill health, had agreed to continue to serve in an advisory capacity.

After 17 years in the army medical corps, Dr. Chenault joined the University Medical School in 1946. He has been on sick leave since last June.

Dr. Jones said Dr. W. C. Langston will continue as acting dean of the medical school and that there will be no change in the policy or program at the school.

To Let Bids to Enlarge Levee in Lafayette

New Orleans, Sept. 9 — (P) — Bids will be opened Sept. 28 for enlarging the Red river levee in Lafayette, La., the district engineer reported here today.

The work consists of a series of projects along the river below Denison dam to provide protection against flash floods. It will connect with a similar project above Garland City, Ark.

It is estimated that 210 days will be required to complete the work, which involves some 195,000 yards of semicompacted levee earthwork.

Stairway Fall Fatal to Texas Girl

Boston, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A fell down a stairway brought death to a socialite Texas girl and grave injury to a male companion who were returning with college friends from a European cruise aboard the luxury liner Excalibur, an American Export line spokesman said today.

The girl, who died yesterday, four days after she tumbled down a nine-foot stairway from the boat deck of the promenade deck, was identified as Adrienne Atwell, 20, of Dallas.

The big liner has been speeded up to bring her companion, Robert M. Willard, 21, of Dallas, to Boston tonight.

Willard was in a coma for three days after the fall. There were no reports of any other passengers hurt, the spokesman said. There was, he added, no explanation of what caused Miss Atwell and Willard to fall.

Miss Atwell, who was the granddaughter of Federal Judge William H. Atwell, was returning with her parents, Atty. and Mrs. Webster Atwell.

The line said the Atwells were in a party which included 6 other Texas college students who sailed June 28 for a cruise in the Mediterranean.

Steps to the Moon

Emily had taken to her bed since Gaynel had told her she was going to marry not Barry Bainbridge, but that outrageous young man without a penny to his name.

Dr. Carle said it was another attack of bronchitis after Gaynel discovered her mother was running a temperature. But Emily insisted it was nerves, with maybe a touch of heart in the bargain.

So Gaynel was obliged to break a date with Fritz, which was an important date, because he was going to Chicago for a week or so.

That night after Emily had gone to sleep, Gaynel slipped downstairs to the kitchen to fix herself a snack and almost collided with Denny in the kitchen.

"I sneaked in the side entrance," Denny admitted with a cocky grin. "Sit down, Denny. I'll make you some coffee," Gaynel said. "Mother's in bed with bronchitis."

"Poor Emily. So delicate," Denny rested his elbows on the kitchen table, holding his head.

"Now I know a lady who's just as lovely as I am. But underneath, she's steel, inflexible. Can't bend her, even. That's the reason, dear sister of mine, you find your young brother a pit puffed tonight."

A bit puffed? Gaynel was musing coffee, not paying much attention to his soliloquy.

"Just a bit," Denny passed a hand over his brow. "You see this lovely lady wouldn't listen to me. She insulted me, too, this evening. Like yourself. When I asked her to be my wife—"

"Your wife?" Gaynel gave him all of her attention now. She came over to him, shook him, so that he looked up. "What do you mean, Denny?"

"My wife," Denny said. His handsome young face was flushed, but his expression was serious, somber even. "Didn't I just get through telling you I asked her?"

"Denny! You don't mean you really asked someone to marry you. You don't mean Mrs. Day, do you, Denny?" Gaynel shook him twice more.

"Don't shake me!" he protested. "My heart isn't big enough. Guess I'd take one too many. But you would you after being insulted. Course I asked Mrs. Day to marry me." He straightened up now, of his own accord.

"Why shouldn't I ask her?" he asked. "She's the only woman I ever loved. This is the only time, I tell you. I ever asked a woman to marry me. I'm going to reform. I'm going to make good. I'm going to do a lot of things."

"Denny talk sense—if you can. How could you think of asking anyone to marry you? You haven't any money. You have other responsibilities here, though heaven knows you don't seem to realize them. You're always changing your jobs."

"I never asked any woman before. I never kept any job before. Haven't I kept this one?"

Puppy Love

Dear Miss Dix: Will you please do us girls a favor. I am sure there are plenty in the same boat with me, wishing some one would give our boy friend a jolt. I have been going with "him" ever since high school days. Have passed up wonderful chances on boy friends for him. His actions and eyes show he cares for me, but just because he has a number of years' love before he will be finished college he has never told me he loves me or mentioned the future. Don't you think that even if a young man has five or six more years of schooling ahead that he could give a girl an inkling of his intentions by saying that some day she can share his degree that he is striving for? We don't want a formal engagement, just not to be left guessing.

YVONNE

Answer: There you are, boys, and now you know how the girls feel about it. They don't like this repression stuff. The strong, silent man, who keeps his feelings locked in his own heart because he is not in a position to escort the girl to the altar doesn't make any hit with them. They feel like shaking him until he speaks. If men love them, they want to be told about it in unmistakable language and to have it repeated often and loud.

When a girl loves a boy, it hurts her vanity for him to keep mum about his sentiments. It makes her feel that she has given her heart unasked, and that perhaps the man doesn't want the gift she has bestowed upon him.

Of course, she may think that she sees the sign of her love in his eyes, but she can't be sure that she has read the signal right. She may think that his actions indicate his preference for her, but again she can't be certain because a man may be acting like a girl's house because he likes her mother's cooking and takes her out because she is good company, without ever entertaining for her more than a mild liking or having any intentions beyond having a good time.

So the girl is quite right in expecting the boy who is in love with her and who knows that she is in love with him—for when a girl is in love she no more hides it than she can the shape of her head or the color of her eyes—to tell her all about it. I am of the opinion that if the boy is really in love, he does it.

I strongly suspect that the boys who never tell their love to child hood sweethearts when they are starting off on a long college course, are those who are wise enough to analyze their own emotions and realize that all they feel is a little calf love that will soon flicker out. They know that in five or six years they will change from boys into men; that in a different environment, meeting different people; studying, learning, their whole outlook on life will be altered and that they will acquire new ideals, new standards, form different tastes and habits and that it will be a miracle if they are still in love with the same girl.

These boys are wise and honorable enough not to want to bind a girl whom they may not want to marry when they are ready to marry. They do not wish to feel obliged to marry a girl whom they may have outgrown or of whom they may have tired. Nor do they want to feel that they have kept her from making some advantageous marriage.

So I think, Yvonne, that the boy who does not tell you of his love knows in his heart, that he has no affection for you that will last and is trying to save both of you from getting into a sentimental situation out of, which neither of you could extricate yourselves without somebody's getting hurt. That somebody would be you.

Be a man, let him go; get a boy friend who can say it with an engagement ring.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix: I know a man in his mid-30's who has a weakness for girls in their early teens. Is this a sign of mental inferiority? This man never goes with girls his age. He does not seem to like brains in a woman. According to a noted psychoanalyst, "a child who takes to another child much younger than itself is mentally deficient and does not choose children of his own age because he feels mentally inferior. Is this true in the case of a grown man?"

Answer: Many men of intelligence seem to prefer young girls to sophisticated women. There is something fresh and dewy about youth that appeals to them and they have the same kind of pleasure taking them about and showing them the world as we have in taking a child to the circus.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: There is a certain charming young lady whom I see every day and am most anxious to meet, but I do not know any person to whom I could apply for an introduction. Should I stop her on the street and tell her this, or wait until she speaks to me first?

LONELY YOUNG WIDOWER
Answer: Why don't you write a note and tell her that you would like to know her, but know of no mutual acquaintance who could introduce you? Tell her who you are and give references. An easier way would be to arrange some chance encounter with her. And send once and tell her that in his country a favorite method of getting acquainted with a girl was to step on her foot and then apologize profusely and gracefully. I cannot recommend this method, as it does not seem to me that it would make a favorable impression, on a girl to have her foot mashed and her best shoes ruined. But you never can tell.

Proposed Road Survey Brings Controversy

Little Rock, Sept. 9.—(P)—A proposed survey of Arkansas highways by a private organization has sparked controversy in the Arkansas Highway commission.

Meeting here last night, the commission deferred a vote on a proposition that it approve a request to the Automotive Safety foundation, Washington, D. C. to survey highway needs in the state. The proposal has Governor McMath's approval.

Meeting in advance of a session today at which bids on 14 highway construction projects will be received, the commission also received assurance from Revenue Commissioner Dean R. Morley that uniform licensing of heavy trucks would be put into effect in all counties in the state.

The commission members had complained that the state is losing money because of lack of uniformity in licensing trucks.

Easy to Play New Card Game Canasta

The chance of making a Canasta is obviously better if you have 10 cards than if you have 11. Paradoxically, your chance of getting rid of all your cards is also greater. The more different sets you can meld, the greater the chance that you will be able to get rid of your last few cards by laying off.

The effect here is double-acting. In drawing from the stock, the abstract chance is better to get one of, say, five ranks, than one of two ranks. At the same time, your five different melds limit the opponents' safe discards more than do two melds.

The three melds you have, of course, the more points you score. But a word of warning: do not exaggerate the importance of this reason for wanting to take the pack. If you are a 500 Rummy player, you will perhaps have an impulse to meld everything in sight. But in Canasta, the point values of the melds (usually 10 for 300) weigh relatively little against the big score—the Canasta bonus (300 or 500), the net gain by going out before the opponents have made a Canasta or before they have melded at all.

Sometimes as we shall see, the chance of hooking a big score is better served by not melding. The loss in points that you might have melded (usually under 50) is then trifling.

When we say that the paramount object is to get the pack, we mean, of course, a big Canasta. A pack of, say, 10 or more cards is usually worth taking at some sacrifice, and when the pack grows to 20 or more, the side that gets it will almost surely have a decisive advantage.

But do not scorn the pack merely because it is small. There is often tactical advantage in taking only a few cards; this is most likely to happen (a) when the pack is taken for the first time, to make an initial meld, and (b) when you have only a few cards left and nothing better to do than take cards to lay off and so build toward Canasta.

The first pack is often the biggest test, and in any case taking it is likely to give you a lasting "red" to make an initial meld, you have to deplete your hand and therefore weaken its scoring prospects; if you can replenish it by taking the pack at the same time, this disadvantage disappears.

Body of Odom Arrives Home for Burial

Columbus, Miss., Sept. 9.—(UP)—William (Bill) Odom, "round the-world flier and aerial daredevil," came home to Columbus today in death.

His body was shipped here by train from Cleveland, O., where he was killed Monday in a flaming crash during the Thompson trophy race at the National air races.

Odom will lie at the Gunter, funeral home until Sunday afternoon, when he will be buried with full military honors as a veteran of World War II.

Dr. S. R. Woodson, pastor of the First Baptist church, and the Rev. Jack Cox, pastor of the First Christian church, will conduct the final rites at the First Baptist church and burial will follow in nearby Friendship cemetery.

An air force captain with the air transport command during the war, Odom will be accorded the honors of a hero.

Mississippi Adj. Gen. Pat Wilson of Jackson, notified Capt. A. T. Cain, commander of the Lowndes county VFW burial team, that he is sending 22 planes from Memphis Sunday as an aerial escort for the funeral.

Wilson said the formation would consist of 16 fighters, three bombers and three C-47s.

Odom's survivors include his ex-wife; two children, Rochelle and Ronald Paul; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Odom, and a sister, Mrs. Denton Martin of Kansas City, Mo.

Famed Memphis Physician to Be Buried Today

Memphis, Sept. 9.—(P)—Funeral services were held here today for Dr. William R. Blue, 61, Memphis physician and diagnostician, who died yesterday.

Blue was a native of Callatin, Tenn., and was graduated second in his class at Vanderbilt in 1911. He began his career as a general practitioner in Parkin, Ark. Blue later did post-graduate work in New York and moved to Memphis in 1918 to begin practice as a diagnostician. He was regarded as an authority on undulant fever.

Fair Enough

New York, Sept. 7.—The investigation of General Vaughan's affairs continues to turn up precedents sanctified by the Hyde Park haunt and lesser members of the royal family.

The plain inference here is that General Vaughan tampered with justice because the lawyer promoted a campaign gift and, further, that the money came from the rascal's ill-gotten profits on black-market booze. This would be pleasant scandalous. But what say the authorities? Is this deplorable case or is it a case to be proud of?

In an Associated Press poll, one of the coaches of the nine schools eligible to compete for the title picked Coach "Rabbit" Burnett's squad for the role of favorite underdog.

Teachers were selected to finish second and third, respectively.

(Arkansas State and Little Rock Junior college did not schedule the required minimum of five conference games to be eligible for the championship.)

Here's how the coaches think the AIC football standings will be at the close of the race in November:

1. Arkansas Tech; 2. Ouachita; 3. Henderson; 4. Arkansas A. and M.; 5. Arkansas State Teachers; 6. Magnolia A. and M.; 7. Hendrix; 8. College of the Ozarks; 9. Arkansas College.

So well agreed were the coaches that there was little contest for any spot. Ouachita and Henderson were as heavily favored to second and third as Tech was to win.

Being placed atop the heap in pre-season ratings is no experience for the Wonderboys. They have won four consecutive conference gridiron crowns.

Incidentally, Tech this year becomes a four-year school. This leaves Little Rock J. C. and Magnolia the only two-year schools in the 11-member conference.

Ouachita's tigers get the jump on the other AIC members in opening season. The Baptists fly to Texas for a game Saturday with Corpus Christi U. This will be one of the two plane trips for Ouachita.

The tigers will fly next week to Oklahoma to play Oklahoma City U.

This presently reached the not too delicate nose of a New York journalist who began to make roundabout inquiries. The inquiries presently reached the ear of the magnate.

And he, to lighten the labor of a seeker of the truth, abruptly admitted that he had made the loan and that Jimmy had defaulted in the fine old tradition of his clan. But, he said, Jimmy finally had come in and picked up his debt and the note was squared and gone.

Time passed and the patron of the Eaglet stood in need of a presidential pardon to restore to him the right to vote for enlightened had gone to his fathers and his mortal shell was carefully installed at Hyde park as the cornerstone of the now rising family traffic in hot dogs, ice-cream cones, parking (50 cents) post-cards, peanuts and pennants.

But Harry S. Truman recognized that a promise by the martyr whom countless millions never could cease to mourn, was a solemn obligation on the party. And so, soon after Mr. Truman became president, the pardon issued and the wretched victim of circumstances and bad luck was made a man of honor once again.

To those of so evil mind as to doubt that the $50,000 was paid in full and interest to the penny, suggest this:

Among the creditors of Anna and John was an ex-convict, now known and mighty in the politics of Minnesota and Wisconsin. He already had picked up his pardon, no thanks whatever, of course, to many cash gifts to the campaign funds of those two states and Arizona. He already had recovered his right to vote and dictate the appointment of marshals, district attorneys and, recently, even of a federal judge. But, being a shrewd businessman, he put $50,000 into Anna's paper and, still pursuing a promising thing, $50,000 more. In the end he had a 100 percent, but it was not a bad deal, either, if you have had experience with them.

But General Vaughan has no right to be doing as he has. Did he ever hear of blasphemy?

Final Round of Cotton League Playoff Tonight

El Dorado, Sept. 9.—(P)—Tonight the El Dorado will play here tonight for the right to meet Pine Bluff in the final round of the Cotton League playoff.

The deciding game, scheduled last night, was delayed by rain. Each team has three victories in the best four of seven series.

Unless there is further delay, the final round will start tomorrow night at 7 o'clock at the home of tonight's game.

Pine Bluff, which finished fourth in the regular season standings, moved to the final round Wednesday night by eliminating Greenwood, pennant winner.

Tech Appears Team to Beat in Arkansas

Little Rock, Sept. 9.—(P)—Arkansas Tech's Wonderboys were tagged by loop coaches to repeat as football champions of the Arkansas Intercollegiate conference.

Teachers were selected to finish second and third, respectively.
